Justice: What's the Right Thing to Do? - Wikipedia

Justice is one of the most popular courses in Harvard University's history. Nearly one thousand students pack Harvard's historic Sanders Theatre to hear Professor Michael Sandel talk about justice, equality, democracy, and citizenship. This course aims to help viewers become more critically minded thinkers about the moral decisions we all face in our everyday lives. PBS International opens ...

In Justice, Sandel discusses utilitarianism, libertarianism, and other forms of government constructs in the pursuit of "the good life". One of the big questions discussed is how do we mandate morality? What is the right thing to do and can we legislate virtue? Who decides what is right and what is wrong? These are

Justice: What's The Right Thing To Do? Episode 01 "THE MORAL SIDE OF MURDER"

First I should say right at the beginning that the title is a bit misleading: I don't think there is a single issue in which Sandel tells us explicitly the right thing to do. But he does give what seems to me a very clear description of various ways of thinking about justice. He examines utilitarianism (greatest good for the greatest number), then the absolute privileging of "freedom of choice ...

Ultimately, Mr. Sandel argues convincingly that what the right thing is cannot be separated entirely from the hazards of our genes, education and circumstances and that discussions of moral matters require more than considerations of utility and consent. To Sandel, there is a civic dimension to justice that too few attempt to engage. These are thought provoking ideas brought forth in ...
